Jim's Education.

Old Ned's son returned from college the other day. The old man had looked forward to the event, and had arranged a dinner, to which he invited a large number of acquaintances. The young man was modest, and to the great humiliation of his father, made no attempt to display his learning. The old man waited several days, and when at last he saw no evidences of his son's education, he approached him and said:

"Jim, it do seem ter me dat yer's putting yer education ter a mighty po' use. I ain't heard a big word from yer yet. I can un'erstan' yer gist as well as I did 'fore yer went ter dat school. Ef a man's edycated, I want him ter talk so as I can't un'erstan' him. Me an' yer mudder hab been talkin' 'bout dis matter, an' we've grieved way down in de flesh. Jim, what's de big word for grasshopper?"

"Orthopterous insect of the genus gryllus, according to Webster," replied the young man.

"But de tuther day when dem folks was heah yer spoke ob a grasshopper jest de same as de igno'rent nigger in de country, an' brought shame down on de heads of yer mudder an' myself. What's de big word for goat?"

"Mammiferous quadruped of the genus capra," answered the young man.

"But why didn't yer say so, 'stead of sayin' goat like a nigger, an' bringin' de tingle ob embarrassment ter yer fader's face? What did I gin yer dat schoolin' fur—ter talk like a nigger? dat I see gwine ter keep yer heah in idleness 'lessen yer ken reflex credit on de family? Jim, what is de big words fur blamed fool?"

"I don't know, sir."

"Yer doan? Den yer ain't 'quainted wid yersef. Yer doan' recognize whar yer stands. Go out dar in de field wid a mule an' identify yersef."

Two Singular Men.

A stranger with long hair, a white coat, and a white hat with a crape band entered a Griswold street restaurant yesterday, and said to the proprietor:

"Sir, let me explain in advance that I am a singular man."

"All right sir. A singular man's order is as good as any one else's."

"I want six oysters on the half shell—on the left-hand half, if you please."

The oysters were opened and placed before him, and when he had devoured them he said:

"Now take six oysters, run them through a clothes wringer to remove the dampness, and fry them for me in olive oil."

This order was also filled, when he called for a cup of salt and water, added milk and sugar, and drank it down and asked for his bill.

"I also desire to explain in advance that I am a singular man," replied the proprietor. "Your bill is $2."

"Impossible!"

"Just $2, sir."

"But that is monstrous!"

"Perhaps it seems high, but that's my singular way for charging for singular lunches."

"I'll never pay it!"

"Then I'll saddle your heart!"

The sad proceedings were about to begin when the long-haired man forked over and walked out. The lessor seemed to sink deep into his heart, for he halted at a fruit store and, without any explanations in advance, paid the usual price for a banana and carried it off without asking the seller to dip the ends in rose water.—Detroit Free Press.

Why She Asked Again.

"Won't you please tell me where the Closter train is?" asked a petite, handsome woman of a Hackensack man in the Jersey City depot of the New York, Lake Erie and Western Railway yesterday afternoon.

"You mean the Caristadt train?" he suggested.

"No, sir; that's what they all tell me. What I want is the train for Closter!"

"C-l-o-s-t-e-r," she smilingly said.

"Can't you tell me where it is?"

"I can't say exactly, but—"

Just here a big, burly, blue-coated official stepped up and, with a pompous air, exclaimed:

"I've told you four times where that train was!"

"Very true, sir," replied the polite little lady; "but you told me different every time."

The official wilted and suffled off in despair, while the lady found the train.—Hackensack Republican.

She Swar'd.

"Do you know the nature of an oath?" asked a Judge of a colored woman.

"Yes, sah; I reckon I does."

"You know, then, what it is to swear?"

"Yes, sah; I reckon I does."

"Hold up your hand and swear."

She held up her hand and ripped out an oath which almost took the Judge's breath.

"I'll send you to jail for this, you miserable creature."

"Fur what, Jedge?"

"For using profane language in this court room."

"I doesn't know what yer means by 'fane language. Yer tole me to swar, an' I swar'd. White folks gittin' so high up it gins a nigger a crick in de naik ter look up at 'em. I see gwine ter leave dis town, 'case I wa'n't borned in Arkansas, nohow."—Arkansas Traveler.

She Thought it Did.

"We had such a delightful time at the beach," exclaimed the first, as they took seats in the car.

"Did you gain any in health?" asked the other.

"No, I can't say as I did."

"Do the children feel better?"

"Perhaps not."

"Did your husband get rid of his cough?"

"Oh, no."

"Then, to sum the whole thing up, did you really gain anything by going?"

"Certainly we did. My husband made friends with a man from Iowa, and had him to sign a note with him for $4,000. I should say we did gain!"—Wall Street News.

1808-1883.
Missouri Republican Prospectus.

The "Old Reliable" Newspaper.

A Journal for the South and West.

In issuing its Prospectus for 1883-'83, the Missouri Republican points to the complete fulfillment of all its past promises. During the last year (with the opening of new lines of communication, spreading in every direction), it has greatly increased its telegraphic service; augmented its corps of editors, reporters and correspondents; improved its mechanical features; bettered its system of condensing and arranging the news, and maintained, in regard to the character of its contents, the reputation it has long held throughout the whole South-western country as the BEST NEWSPAPER PRINTED.

The Republican has distinguished all attempts at rivalry or competition, and is now the only Democratic English newspaper published in St. Louis. Its support of the principles of the Democratic party is universally recognized as strong in logic, whilst moderate and conservative in tone. In its exposures of the corruption, profligacy and evil tendencies of the Republican party, it is fearless and aggressive. But it is in the material interest of the South and West—agriculture, commerce, and the mechanic arts—that this paper finds its widest and most productive field. Next to collecting and commenting upon the most interesting news of the day, its energies are devoted to the progress and prosperity of

THE GREAT MISSISSIPPI VALLEY and the tributary regions. From its columns mere sensationalism is carefully excluded, with the view of making it a welcome visitor to the purest home circles. To the farmer, merchant, trader, manufacturer, banker, or business man of any class, it is indispensable. Its financial and commercial reports are full and reliable. Every movement of trade, commerce, transportation, &c., is faithfully recorded. With all this, it finds room for a large quantity of miscellaneous reading matter to give variety and entertainment.

GET YOUR NEIGHBORS TO SUBSCRIBE.

The support and pride of a first-class newspaper is a large subscription list. The cost, of course, is immense to the conductors, but trifling to the reader. May we not ask our friends, who have been with us so long, to aid in extending our circulation still further? If your neighbor is not a subscriber, show him the Republican and have him send in his name. Talk it up. Increase the clubs.
